Though the cover is worn ... and the pages are torn, and though places bear traces of tears, yet more precious than gold is the book worn and old, that can shatter and scatter my fears. When I prayerfully look in the precious old Book, as my eyes scan the pages I see many tokens of love from the Father above, Who is nearest and dearest to me. This old Book is my guide, ’tis a friend by my side, it will lighten and brighten my way; and each promise I find soothes and gladdens my mind as I read it and heed it today.

You have heard ... people lament, “Pray for my child, because he is hanging around with the wrong crowd.” This is not really true. You cannot hang around a crowd; you are actually a part of the crowd. It is important for a Christian to surround himself with others who truly fear God. You will either become part of a good crowd or a part of the wrong crowd.

– E. R. Fuller

Being firmly persuaded that ... those doctrines which have constituted the grand subject of my public Ministry for a long course of years are divine Truths, being deeply sensible that all I have and all I am are the Lord's and entirely at his disposal and being completely satisfied that his dominion is perfectly wise and righteous, I, in the anticipation of my departing moment, cheerfully commend my immortal Spirit into his hands in expectation of everlasting Life as the Gift of Sovereign Grace through the mediation of Jesus Christ and my Body I resign to the care of providence in the silent Grave with a pleasing hope of its being raised again at the last day in a state of perpetual vigour, beauty and Glory.

– A. Booth (1806)

Psalm 119 ...
called the Alphabet of Divine Love, the Paradise of all the Doctrines, the Storehouse of the Holy Spirit, the School of Truth, also the deep mystery of the Scriptures, where the whole moral discipline of all the virtues shines brightly. And as all moral instruction is delightsome, therefore this Psalm, because excelling in this kind of instruction, should be called delightsome, inasmuch as it surpasses the rest. The other Psalms, truly, as lesser stars shine somewhat; but this burns with the meridian heat of its full brightness, and is wholly resplendent with moral loveliness.

– J. P. Palanerius (1660)
There is no attribute ...
more comforting to His children than that of God's Sovereignty. Under the most adverse circumstances, in the most severe trials, they believe that Sovereignty has ordained their afflictions, that Sovereignty overrules them, and that Sovereignty will sanctify them all. There is nothing for which the children ought more earnestly to contend than the doctrine of their Master over all creation – the Kingship of God over all the works of His own hands – the Throne of God and His right to sit upon that Throne.

On the other hand, there is no doctrine more hated by others, no truth of which they have made such a football, as the great, stupendous, but yet most certain doctrine of the Sovereignty of the infinite Jehovah. Men will allow God to be everywhere except on His throne. They will allow Him to be in His workshop to fashion worlds and make stars. They will allow Him to be in His almonry to dispense His alms and bestow His bounties. They will allow Him to sustain the earth and bear up the pillars thereof, or light the lamps of heaven, or rule the waves of the ever-moving ocean; but when God ascends His throne, His creatures then gnash their teeth, and we proclaim an enthroned God, and His right to do as He will with His own, to dispose of His creatures as He thinks well, without consulting them in the matter; then it is that we are hissed and execrated, and then it is that men turn a deaf ear to us, for God on His throne is not the God they love. But it is God upon the throne that we love to preach. It is God upon His throne whom we trust.

– C.H. Spurgeon

Running water prevents ... stagnation. Blowing wind keeps the atmosphere wholesome. Employment of metal prevents rusting. Cultivated land prevents the growth of weeds. Furthermore, activity properly directed is wholesome for Christian growth and development. The Christian was designed for work. He is created in Christ Jesus unto good works (Eph. 2:10). God did not intend that man should live idly.

– Wilbur Elias Best

Freedom is not ... doing what you want, but the ability to do what you ought.

The peace and serenity of ...
North America's spruce forests is occasionally broken by little other than the rustle of a deer passing by. At least that's what most people think. In truth, there are things going on which would cause us profound wonder. [Take for example,] the bunchberry dogwood flower [which] stands only about one-tenth of an inch tall. Scientists knew that its flowers opened explosively. The flowers do this to propel their pollen further. The scientists decided to find out precisely how fast the flowers really opened. So they decided to tape a flower opening with a high speed camera that is capable of taking 1,000 pictures a second. But the camera proved to be too slow. It was only with a camera that takes 10,000 pictures a second that they could clearly see what was going on. They saw that the petals opened, and in a separate action, the stamens unfold so fast that they catapult pollen into the air. All of this happens in four tenths of a thousandth of a second. That's more than a hundred times faster than a chameleon’s tongue captures lunch. The stamens unfold so fast that they subject the pollen to 2,400 times the force of gravity. There are no limits to the wonders God can conceive and create. His greatest wonder is His mercy which resulted in forgiveness and salvation.

When I think of my guilt ...
I see that my salvation is one of our Saviour’s greatest miracles.

– Samuel Rutherford

“Take that scowl off your face. I know you don’t like Brussels Sprouts. But remember, ‘In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.’”
