Good education is not ...
regeneration. Education may chain up mens’ lusts, but cannot change their hearts. A wolf is still a ravenous beast, though it be in chains.

A number of high-profile ...
Hollywood celebrities have written to the governor of Georgia, threatening to boycott the state if the "heartbeat" abortion bill becomes law. House Bill 481 which would ban most abortions after six weeks, or when an unborn baby's heartbeat is first detected, was [also] passed by the Georgia Senate.

More than 40 celebrities have signed an open letter sent to Georgia Governor Brian Kemp and House Speaker David Ralston, saying they will urge TV and film production companies to abandon the state if the bill is signed into law. In an attempt to use their economic power to sway the democratic process, they say that ... "we cannot in good conscience recommend that our industry remain in Georgia if HB481 becomes law!”

If the Apostles ... had understood that baptism was to be introduced in the room of circumcision (as our paedobaptist Christian brethren and ministers inform us is their opinion of the matter) they would have said something about it as the council held at Jerusalem, Acts, chap. xv. vers. 5. “But there rose up certain of the sect of the Pharisees which believe, saying, that it was needful to circumcise them, &c.” Had the Apostles understood it as many do now, they would at once have settled the controversy, by telling them that baptism was come in the room of circumcision.

Six planets were known ...

from antiquity. In order of distance from the Sun, these are Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn. Saturn, at 887 million miles from the Sun, was the furthest object known in the Solar System, until, in 1781, when Uranus was discovered by William Herschel. Uranus is 1.78 billion miles from the Sun, so its discovery more or less doubled the known size of the Solar System. Its great distance has limited its exploration by unmanned spacecraft, so only Voyager 2 has achieved a near flyby in 1986.

However, this flyby, with the addition of observations from the Hubble Space Telescope, have pointed out a number of strange things about this anomalous planet. Like the other gas giants, Uranus has a magnetic field and its own system of moons, as well as the second best set of planetary rings in the Solar System. However, its polar axis is angled at 98° to the Solar System Normal, compared with 23.5° for the Earth. Not only that, but, viewed from above its North Pole, Uranus rotates clockwise; most other planets, including Earth, rotate counter-clockwise. Currently, 27 moons are known to orbit Uranus, all doing so in approximately the same plane as the planet’s equator and rings, with most of them orbiting in retrograde direction.

It is hard to see how the anomalous motions and inclinations could have come about if the Solar System were formed out of stellar dust, as evolutionary astrophysicists suggest. Since God is a God of infinite creativity, the direct creation of the Uranus system makes much more sense.

“When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained; what is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him?”

Christian deaths are ...

spiraling in Nigeria as militant Fulani herdsmen and Boko Haram terrorists escalate their attacks, according to reports from religious liberty watchdog groups active there. As many as 280 people were killed in Christian communities in several attacks spanning February through mid-March in Nigeria's Middle Belt... Militants destroyed hundreds of homes and displaced residents... Death tolls since February vary among reporting agencies. In the largest tally, CSW [Christian Solidarity Worldwide] reported 280 people died in February and March attacks, including 130 deaths in Kaduna, 120 in Zamfara and 30 in Benue states. Nigeria ranked the third "most terrorized country" in the 2018 Global Terrorism Index for the fourth consecutive year.

Praying, true praying...

costs an outlay of serious attention and of time, which flesh and blood do not relish. Few persons are made of such strong fiber that they will make a costly outlay when surface work will pass as well in the market. We can habituate ourselves to our beggarly praying until it looks well to us, at least it keeps up a decent form and quiets conscience-the deadliest of opiates! We can slight our praying, and not realize the peril till the foundations are gone. Hurried devotions make weak faith, feeble convictions, questionable piety. To be little with God is to be little for God. To cut short the praying makes the whole religious character short, scrimp, niggardly, and slovenly.

When Matthew Henry ...

lying ill, and knew that he had not long to live, someone asked him if he had a last word to say to the Christians of England, who had come to love him so dearly, and to look up to him for spiritual guidance. “Yes,” he said, “he did have.” This would be his last statement: “A life spent in the service of God and communion with Him is the most comfortable and pleasant life that anyone can live in this world.” The next day he went to be at home with his Lord.
